Declaration of Interest:

Why I want to be part of the NUS Students' Computing Club Management Committee:

The NUS Computing Club is a great platform for me to connect with the student body at the School of Computing and give back to the brilliant and supportive community we have at the school of computing. I am a great team player and have time enough time this year to dedicate my attention to organizing and managing events for SOC. I believe joining the management committee will help me develop and perfect critical life skills like community leadership, negotiation, presentation, organization and conflict resolution.

I will be contesting for the position of External Relations Vice President in this election. I believe I have a variety of previous experiences with dealing with the demands of such a position.

For example, I was the marketing and finance head for my high school yearbook, where I was assigned the responsibility of managing a team to find and invite various potential advertisers and sponsors for the production and printing of the school yearbook. The aim was to bring the printing and production cost to 0 for all students in the final year.

In this position, we managed to get 23 external and 3 internal sponsors to finance the yearbook. We also came up with approved advertisements for these sponsors and worked with other teams to make the yearbook design process an efficient and productive one.

Another such instance is in a local community center event where I worked as part of a team to advertise and publicize a Chinese New Year hamper give-away event, to underprivileged families. The aim was to gather volunteers from the local community and to get donations for the organization we were working with.
